

Infusing Technology

2017 Summer Academy

The West Virginia Center for Professional Development's (WVCPD) Infusing Technology Academy provides the opportunity for educators to collaborate with those who are using technology to engage students in meaningful ways. All skill levels are welcome to these sessions which use a multi-device format. This means that whether you have access to one tablet, a complete computer lab or you are leading a one-to-one classroom, you will leave the session with a host of resources to implement immediately. Registration is open and space is limited.

National Board Certification Support

The West Virginia Center for Professional Development (WVCPD) has a long history of supporting teachers through the National Board Certification (NBC) process. The Center's NBC support is an in-depth professional development opportunity that allows participants to review and better understand the complete National Board Certification standards and process. WVCPD partners with trained National Board support providers to offer teachers structured and sustained assistance. This begins in the summer with face-to-face professional development, and continues throughout the NBC process with monthly meetings with peers and/or expert mentors.
